PREFACE

This book represents an attempt to tell about all of the descendants of Elisha Bacon Wilcox and his wife, Hepzibah (Cornwell) Wilcox, of Middletown, Connecticut. Thus far over 340 such individuals have been identified, and the list is believed to be reasonably up to date.

The author has already published a book, The New England Ancestry of Albert Wilcox Savage, Jr., Volume I - Savage and Wilcox Lines, which contains an account of the ancestry of both Elisha and Hepzibah, and the present work should complement that book. Using both books together, any descendant of this couple should be able to trace his lineage back through many lines to his immigrant ancestors and beyond, to Europe.

It might also be noted that Edmund North Wilcox, one of the sons of this couple, married Frances Emilie Tryon; and the mother of Frances Tryon was Lucetta Boardman, daughter of Capt. Nathaniel Boardman and Mercy Savage. The ancestral lines of both Nathaniel and Mercy are also treated in the New England Ancestry. This book should be of double interest to Edmund's descendants.

Copies of the ancestry book can be obtained by writing to the author.

INTRODUCTION

The descendants of Elisha Bacon Wilcox and his wife, Hepzibah Cornwell Wilcox, of Middletown, Connecticut, are now numerous and widely scattered throughout the United States, from Maine to Florida to Hawaii. They also have many different surnames-- Armstrong, Barnes, Boardman, Bowen, Bowers, Cross, Decherd, Gallardo, Hills, Lee, Maine, McCollom, Morgan, Parsons, Roberts, Savage, Southwick, Sweet, Umba, and Zimmerman, to name just a few.

In the course of compiling this work certain special considerations have arisen which should be mentioned:

ADOPTIONS-- There may be some question as to whether adopted children should be considered descendants. If the consideration is purely genetic, as in a study of medical family history or other inherited physical traits, then adoptees are not descendants. However, for most other considerations-- legal, emotional, social, etc., they are certainly family members and must be so considered.

USE OF JR., III, ETC.-- When a son is given exactly the same name as his father, the problem arises of distinguishing between the two individuals. It has long been the practice to add the term "Jr." to the name of the son in such cases. When the "Jr." has a son with the same name, the Roman numeral III (without a comma) is added in place of "Jr." When the father dies, the son usually drops the term "Jr.," as there is no longer much danger of confusion.

In the past it was occasionally, though rarely, the practice to use "Jr." to distinguish between two individuals with the same name who were not father and son but were both living at the same time in the same community, perhaps uncle and nephew, or even older and younger cousins. Any student of genealogy must be aware of such possibilities, and must not jump to the conclusion that any "Jr." found in a record necessarily has the same name as his father.

It has also been the custom to use the Roman numeral II to designate a grandson, where the intervening father had a different name, particularly if grandfather and grandson were both alive. Again, the "II" was dropped when the grandfather died.

It is all very well to drop the "Jr." when the "Sr." dies and can no longer receive mail, sign checks, or otherwise be confused with the living son. However, in writing genealogies, when both parties are dead, there is again danger of confusion. Thus, if we mention Horace Cornwell Wilcox, are we speaking of Elisha Wilcox's son, or his grandson Horace (Jr., who died at the age of 10 months), or Elisha's great-grandson, Horace the son of George? The use of the Roman numeral II would help identify the last-named Horace.

However, in this book, because George's son Horace was apparently never considered "Horace II," he will be designated simply Horace Cornwell Wilcox, and his son will be "Horace Cornwell Wilcox, Jr.," as he has been more generally known.

CEMETERIES-- The following are descriptions of a few of the principal cemeteries referred to in the text.

1. WILCOX CEMETERY - located in East Berlin, Connecticut. To get there take state route east from the Berlin Turnpike about one mile. Turn left onto Berlin St. Go northeast on Berlin St. one half mile. The cemetery is located on the left, behind the war memorial.

2. NEW HIGHLAND CEMETERY - located in Westfield, near East Berlin. This cemetery has been known by several names. In the Hale Collection of gravestone inscriptions, in the Connecticut State Library in Hartford, it is called the New Highland Cemetery, to distinguish it from the (smaller) Old Highland Cemetery, located on Boardman Lane, a mile east of the New Highland Cemetery. It is also called the West Cemetery. It is on the site of the original farm of Elisha Bacon Wilcox. It can be reached from Berlin as follows: Take state route 72 east from the Berlin Turnpike one mile. Turn right (south) onto Savage Hill Rd., which becomes Atkins St. Continue south 3.3 miles from route 72. The cemetery is on Atkins St. on the right (west) side.

3. EAST CEMETERY - located in Meriden, off East Main St., a couple of blocks east of Broad St. Access is from Main Street by a small private road to the south.

4. WALNUT GROVE CEMETERY - located in Meriden. Follow Cook Ave. south. It is a very large cemetery on the right.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

In the compilation of this work I am most indebted to Elmo Ashton Decherd. In a sense this is but an extension and amplification of her notes. Although she was not born a Wilcox, she has become part of the family by marriage, and has been keenly interested in its relationships and been in close touch with many of its branches. She has furnished many photographs, names, addresses, dates, and relationships.

In addition I would like to express my gratitude for the help given me by my wife, Mary Irene, and my daughter Antoinette, and to many correspondents who have contributed valuable information and leads. Among these are:

DESCENDANTS OF ELISHA BACON WILCOX OF MIDDLETOWN, CONNECTICUT

Elisha Bacon Wilcox was born in the Westfield District of Middletown, Connecticut, 20 June 1795, [1] the fourth son and sixth child of Joseph and Miriam (Bacon) Wilcox. He lived all his life and died on the farm there, and was rarely absent, his longest absence at any one time being, during the 86 years of his life, for two weeks, when he went to New Hampshire to marry Hepzibah Cornwell [2] on 26 January 1818. [3] Like his parents and all four grandparents before him, Elisha was a member of the Third Congregational Church at Westfield, having been admitted to full membership 4 June 1854, and elected a deacon 22 November 1861. [4]

Hepzibah Cornwell was born in Johnstown, New York, 1 April 1798, [5] the oldest child of Daniel and Lucy (Hamlin) Cornwell; she was raised in Charlestown, New Hampshire. The (adult) baptism of "Hepsibah Wilcox Wife of Elisha B. Wilcox" on 10 Sep 1820 is listed in the records of the Third Congregational Church at Westfield, as is her death on 19 January 1877. [6] Elisha died 17 October 1881, aged 86, and his death certificate shows that he was blind for the last fourteen years of his life.

Elisha and Hepzibah had twelve children and thirty-five grandchildren. Nine of their children lived to marry, and eight had children of their own. Eight of the nine were living and able to attend the funeral of Elisha. There is a printed "Family Record" form containing the dates of the births, marriages, and deaths of Elisha, Hepzibah, and all twelve of their children. The original handwritten record on this chart is in the possession of Mrs. Elmo A. Decherd of Wallingford, Connecticut, widow of Kirtland Wilcox Decherd, a grandson of Elisha's youngest son, Watson. This record is complete except for the first marriage of Jedediah (see below), where these appears to have been some erasure or alteration.

His mother died when he was eight and a half years old, and he went to live with his uncle, George Edwin Savage. He graduated from the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University in 1899, and in 1900 he was employed in the maintenance of way department for the Pennsylvania Railroad, and two years later became engaged in the construction of the Hudson River tunnels which were to take the trains out of the new station at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-third Street in New York City. There he was assistant engineer in charge of alignment. At the time he was living at 517 W. 151st St. in New York City. [2,3]
